

New fellow positions in refugee health

The Department of Health in Victoria has funded four refugee fellow positions in refugee health to build capacity across the state to improve refugee and asylum seeker health care.

Their roles include:

- Improving coordination of refugee and asylum seeker health care
- Providing advice and liaison about clinical issues in people who are refugee background/asylum seekers
- Providing education in refugee health to GPs, specialists, nurses, hospital staff and allied health as required, and in response to provider requests.

Fellows are happy to speak to either large or small groups, and can travel to outer metropolitan or regional areas if required. They can provide information across a variety of topics, and are happy to compile information on emerging issues.

Dr Gardiner

Dr Joanne Gardiner is a GP with a special interest in refugee mental health. She works in community health and at Foundation House, and in the Immigrant and Refugee Clinic at the Victorian Infectious Diseases Service (VIDS) Royal Melbourne Hospital (RMH) and the Peter Doherty Centre in Parkville.

Dr Gardiner runs a clinic for refugees on Tuesday mornings from 9am to 1pm, for refugee health assessments, complex problems, mental health and those not linked into a GP.

A GP referral is not needed, but a brief note outlining the client's contact details, language and interpreter requirements, and a brief statement regarding the reason for the referral, can be faxed to:
